USP General Chapter <825> Radiopharmaceuticals – Preparation, Compounding, Dispensing, and Repackaging

Radiopharmaceuticals represent a unique class of drug products where compounding and other handling activities include the use of radionuclide generators, the preparation of commercially-manufactured radiopharmaceutical kits, the dilution of FDA-approved multi-dose vials, the labeling of human blood products with radionuclides, the preparation of patient-specific radiopharmaceutical doses, and other activities. These activities occur in an environment where individualized patient needs and the safe handling of radioactive materials demand a high level of care and clearly-defined standards that support these activities.

The screenshot shows a light blue banner with the heading "Important Updates". Below the heading is a bullet point: "July 27, 2018 - The proposed General Chapter <825> is now posted for public comment." Below this text are two buttons: a red button labeled "Download the Proposed GC <825>" and a purple button labeled "Submit Comments to the Proposed GC <825>". Below the buttons is a link: "Instructions on how to submit comments to the Proposed General Chapter <825>". A blue arrow labeled "a" points to the red button, and another blue arrow labeled "b" points to the purple button.
