Share Your Expertise—Become a USP Volunteer Expert

USP volunteers are the lifeblood of our organization. A network of independent experts from academia, industry, regulatory, and healthcare fields, our volunteers work collaboratively to develop and revise USP’s standards to reflect current and emerging technologies, and address evolving public health needs. USP relies on the collaboration of Expert Volunteers in the USP standards-setting process. All of USP’s standards are developed and approved by Expert Volunteers.

Volunteer Roles and Responsibilities

Applying for USP Volunteer Expert Opportunities

USP seeks volunteer experts at different times during each 5-year business cycle. Find out how you can become a member of our Expert Committees or Expert Panels.
